

April 5, 2006

I urge the FDIC board of directors to attend the hearing for approving Wal Mart's application for a bank charter. There will be much valid information to oppose the approval, this is too critical an issue for the directors to just play into WalMart's hands.

America is founded on the entrepreneurial opportunities available to all. If the giants like Wal Mart start playing the game, there is no way anyone can compete with them. We all know money talks and the golden rule has become "He who has the gold, rules".

There must be regulations to keep the giants in line. Taxpayers are already subsidizing this WalMart billion dollar giant since they will not even take care of their own employees health care.

If they disregard their own workers so much. and the taxpayers so much, why do you think they will be a responsible financial institution?????

Are all of our government agencies now so corrupt that they will stand by and approve of any corporate scheme to fleece America??

Please help restore our faith in U.S. government and do not allow The Bank of WalMart.

Catherine Muller